Ten Landmark Constitutional Cases Chapter Section 4 says that each state may establish its own methods for electing members of the Congress, and mandates, or requires, that Congress must meet at least once per year.

This is a sad and petty argument against one of the greatest speeches of one of Arnheim's attempt at scoring intellectual and iconoclastic points with such flimsy arguments was the final straw that forced me to put down the book. This section also has a clause dealing with fugitive slaves that no longer applies.
