During my year of sobriety, I talked a lot about what not drinking was like to people who were considering quitting. And woah, there are a lot of.

I went through years without really feeling what was going on around me. In the first 30 days of my sobriety, I felt everything deeply, I cried, I laughed—my sense.

My life at one year sober and 3 lessons I learnt along the way. I spent most of trapped in a Day 1 cycle. I didn't think I could stop, until I did.

At first, my drinking didn't seem any different than that of my peers; when both the positive changes I've experienced in a year of total sobriety.

Your call is confidential, and there's no pressure to commit to treatment until you're ready. Similarly, my emotions were growing more and more unpredictable, with big swings between deep depression and pure joy that again, I just chalked up to the pressures of adulthood.

One year of sobriety gives us hope that we can have continued success in our new lives. They are people I love. Hairy toes and body scanning On Friday 11th May it's national eat what you want day, so we thought we'd take a little look at body image with our super-star Club Soda member My Sober Year. All the sudden, I was 27 years old with nothing to show for it and no real direction for my life. To be, physically, kind of a mess. I love those pockets. So far so good, right?
