There are two unforgettable characters--Count Fosco and Marian Holcombe, or "the magnificent Marian," as the Count refers to. There can surely not have been two identical accidents whilst cleaning pistols on one morning.

The story is sometimes considered an early example of detective fiction with In Collins became a law student at Lincoln's Inn, and was called to the bar in although he never practised. It simply did not need to happen whatsoever and was predictable to a fault. I probably wouldn't have ever picked this one up without it. Please try again later.
