Saint Francis (Christian Encounters Series) association, which was formed by laypeople dedicated to penance and who led a life very much different to the one accustomed to back then, became a great religious strength in the Middle Ages. Francis did not have any difficulty renouncing his inheritance, but he told his father that the money from the clothing belonged to God and the poor. On one occasion, upon coming across Saint Francis, the man tried to throw himself at his feet, but the saint stopped him from doing so and instead, kissed him on his face.

I want to be like Jesus David's Rating: Discussed in this article Francis of Assisi
There he dedicated himself to passionately preach the Gospel to the Christians. Francis understood that spiritual unity with a divine source and significance is essential for the fullness of human life and our capacity for genuine altruistic love. From thereafter, he began to visit and serve the sick in the hospitals.
