On Christmas Eve night, while his wife and children sleep, a father awakens to noises outside his house. The reported involvement of two women, Harriet Butler and Sarah Sackett, as intermediaries is consistent with the account of the poem's earliest transmission in which T. Moore in his poem. ViewsReadEditViewhistory.Thepoem'smeterisanapestictetrameterfourf Before the poem gained wide popularity, American ideas had varied considerably about Saint Nicholas and other Christmastide visitors. By having Saint Nicholas arrive the night before, Moore "deftly shifted the focus away from Christmas Day with its still-problematic religious associations. This change implies that Santa Claus made his exclamation during the moment that he disappeared from view, while the exclamation came before his disappearance in the original.
